HOW I LIVE UNITED

“Issues that affect women and children have always been close to my heart. It bothers me that in a country with our wealth there are children who have no home to live in, or who go hungry at night. When I was raising my children I gave to United Way and volunteered with the YWCA. My two sons are grown now, but my husband and sons still support my efforts to make a difference in our community.

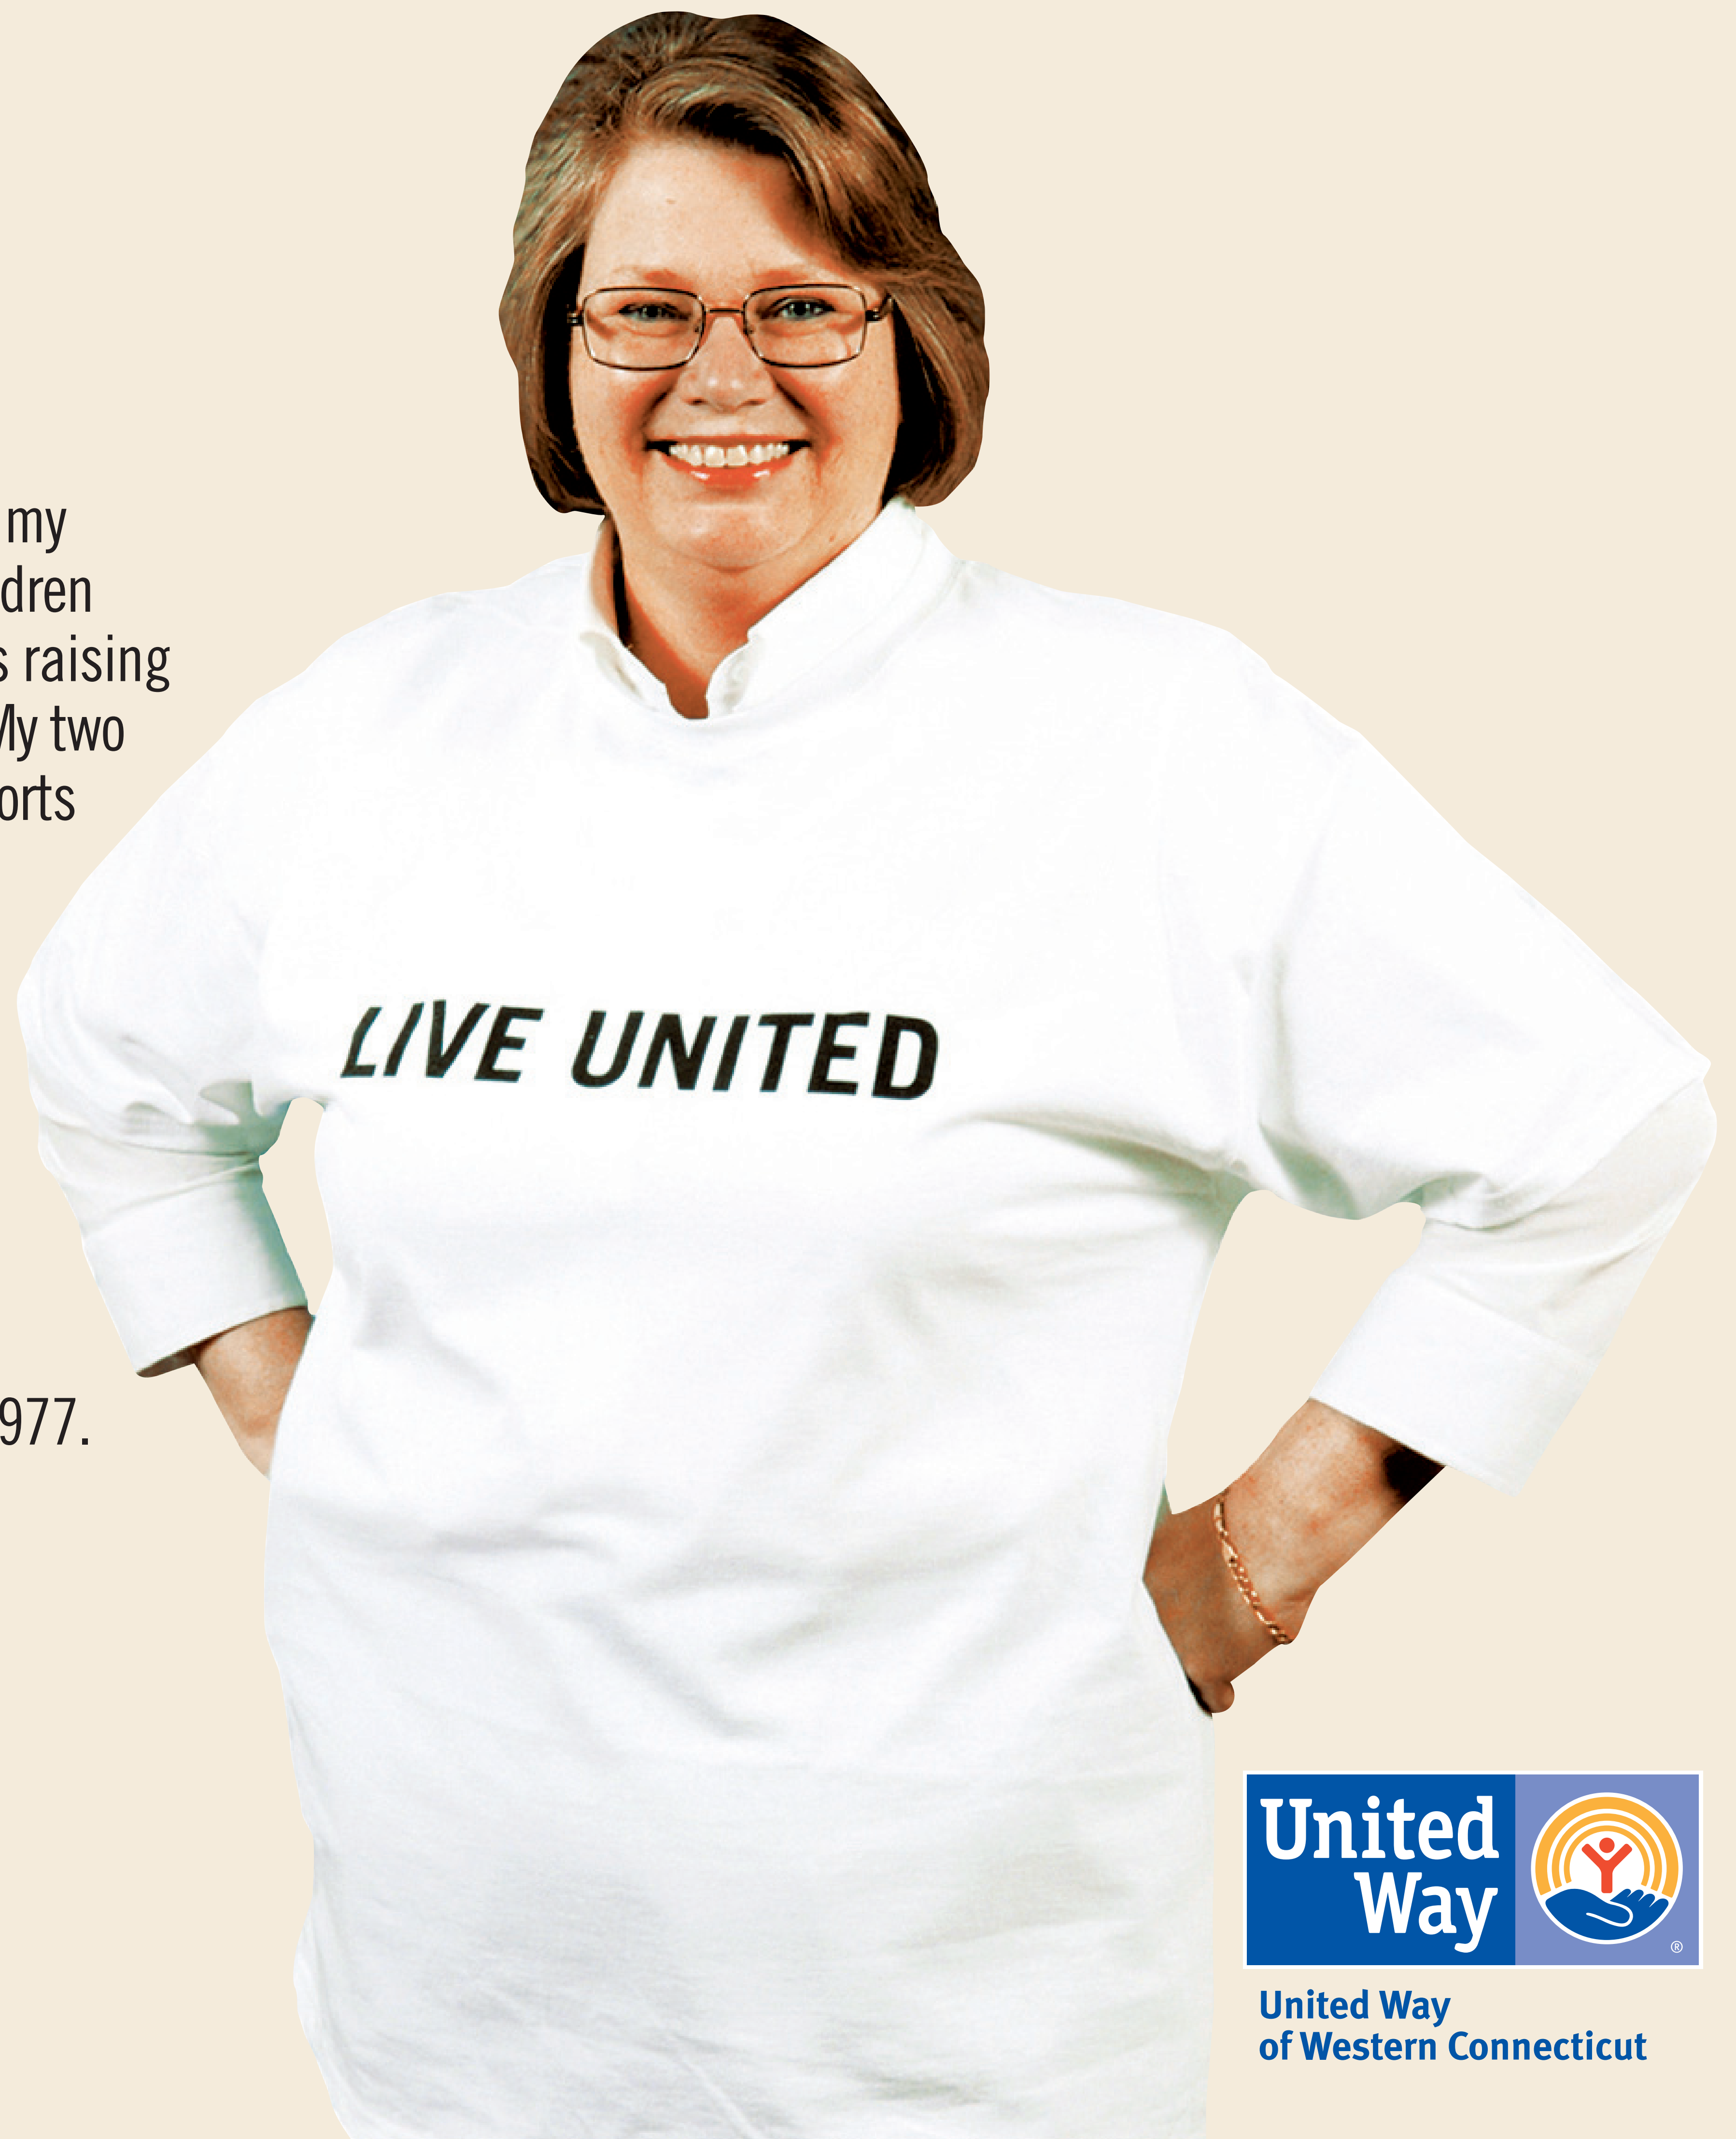

As a businesswoman, I am passionate about people being able to meet their basic needs and support their families. Today I help to raise awareness and money for United Way and for my local Rotary Club. Both organizations are helping create opportunities for a better tomorrow.

I have been a loyal contributor and volunteer to United Way since 1977.
THAT’S HOW I LIVE UNITED.”
